www.ekstromnursery.com

To Our Valued Customers,

With the arrival of spring, Ekstrom Nursery is thrust into preparations for the future. The office staff is busy calculating inventory and producing the catalog for the 2019-2020 seasons. As spring weather permits, the crew is staying late to plant tender seedlings in the field where they can grow and thrive. We have expanded the container yard to meet the increased demand for potted plant material. The containerized plants flourish under the care of Scott and the crew providing fertilizer, irrigation and a fence of protection from pesky rabbits. After 40 years as an Ekstrom Nursery employee Ignacio Ramirez announced his retirement. We are grateful for his work and wish him well in his next adventure. Thankfully we have quality leaders and skillful teams that we can count on to facilitate our future nursery production.

Recently, we visited a newly landscaped yard. The garden was beautifully manicured with freshly barked beds and a few Ekstrom Nursery specimens. A beautiful garden reflects the hard labor of the gardener. As we entered the garden, we noticed the nature of the garden is an invitation that extends beyond the obvious beauty of the plantings. There was a meandering path inviting us to experience the entire garden. There was a lounge chair under a tree inviting guests to sit and observe a nearby bird feeder. A bench along a trickling water feature inviting guests to relax. A freshly planted vegetable garden will eventually invite the gardener to harvest. A gathering of guests around the fire pit invited lovely conversations with friends. As the sun set over the garden, the spectacular sky cast a warm glow over the garden inviting sweet rest at the end of the day.

Enthusiastic gardeners have inspired us to make improvements in our own gardens. The work of transforming the landscape into a beautiful garden is its own delight, but it is followed by an invitation to enjoy the beauty beyond the obvious with rest, relaxation, sharing with family and friends, and harvesting the bounty.

It is a privilege to provide you and your customers with Ekstrom Nursery plant material to create their own beautiful gardens to enjoy. This year we invite you to take the catalog along with a refreshing beverage and sit in your favorite garden spot dreaming about what you and your customers might enjoy.
